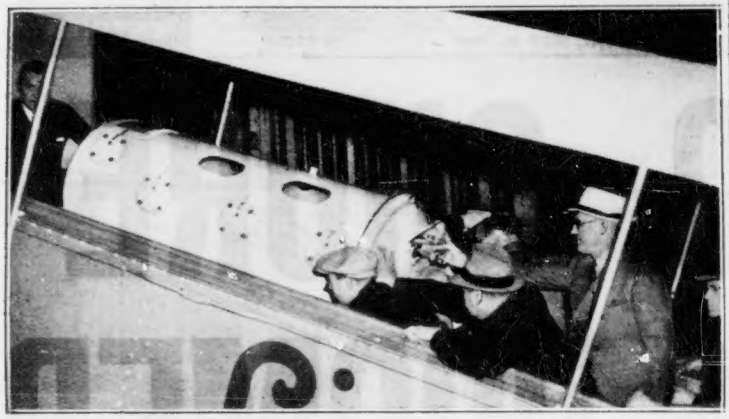
Iron Lung and All, He Goes to Shrine



TRAVELING UNDER DIFFICULTIES—Encased in iron lung, which has been doing his breathing since he was stricken with infantile paralysis in 1936 while on world tour, Fred Snite, Jr., of Chicago, is pushed up gangplank of liner Normandie in New York. He will visit the miracle shrine at Lourdes.

SHRINE-BOUND IRON-LUNGER FOSTERS NO FALSE HOPES

ABOARD THE S.S. NORMANDIE, May 16—Interviewing young Fred Snite, 28, in his "iron lung," you sit just behind him.

You see him and he sees you through a plate glass mirror, tipped at a 45-degree angle above his sun-tanned, cheerful face.

Today, in his stateroom aboard ship here, he said:

"I wish you'd let all my many friends and 'rooters' know that I'm making this pilgrimage to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes without any false hope of a sudden cure.

EXPECTS NO "MIRACLE"

"I don't expect any miracle. I merely believe I may gain increased spiritual strength, a sort of mental uplift.

"And I want to give my thanks for being alive."

In the cumbersome, 800-pound cylinder which does his breathing for him—and keeps him alive from hour to hour—Snite was taken by auto through New York traffic to the Normandie, tied up at the French Line pier.

The liner is due to sail tonight. He made the trip from Miami, Fla., home to New York by train, occupying a special Pullman car with his retinue of five nurses, two doctors, a physiotherapist, respirator experts, his father and mother and a business associate and long-time friend of Snite, Sr.

SPURNS "MARTYR" ROLE

Traveling the way young Fred Snite has to travel would be a nerve-wracking ordeal for most persons. But he's "used to it," he says.

Discussing his pilgrimage, he took a wholly matter-of-fact tone.

He's such a smiling, normal looking

Trustees of the bankrupt New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad have served notice on the state that they propose almost immediate abandonment of passenger service on that portion of the Old Colony system which serves all of the South Shore, from Boston through Quincy to Plymouth and to Middleboro and Greenbush.

All forty-seven stations on these three lines will be abandoned under the plan, according to Governor Saltonstall, who termed the situation "most serious."

Final action, it was said, depends upon a decision of United States District Judge Carroll C. Hincks, of New Haven, promised for June 15. Judge Hincks, in a letter to the trustees, suggested abandonment of 88 stations.

Service to many of these has already been terminated.

The proposed abandonment at this time, with the beginning of the summer season, caused grave alarm among thousands of resort owners and owners of summer homes and vacationers, plus other thousands of commuters who use the lines effected every day to come and go between their homes to work here.

The reason given for the proposed abandonment, according to the governor, is an alleged annual deficit of $2,000,000 in the operation of the lines effected.

It should be understood that the Old Colony system is a separate

Says O'Brien Ruled Vice Squad

Former Mayor James M. O'Brien of Revere placed his own men on the Revere vice squad and then ordered Police Chief Edward J. Tighe not to raid the North Shore Club, a gambling spot, it was charged today at the trial of O'Brien, Tighe and 11 others in superior court.

The charge was made by Assistant Attorney-General John S. Derham in opening the prosecution in the Revere racket case before Judge Allan G. Buttrick and a jury.

LOSES NEW TRIAL PLEA

Earlier in the day, former Mayor O'Brien had lost his fight for a new trial and for arrest of judgment as the result of his conviction on a charge of embezzling more than $13,000 while he was Revere city treasurer.

Delayed by arrangements in the earlier case, the racket trial got under way at noon and Derham, in his opening for the state, said:

"Briefly, this is the evidence. Some time in 1935, James M. O'Brien assumed office as chief executive in the cit yof Revere and as such he automatically became head of the police department.

"Chief of Police Tighe was directly answerable to the mayor.

DR. SERGE VORONOFF AND HIS WIFE
'Monkey Gland' Expert Arrives in New York

150-Year Life Span By Grafting Glands, Voronoff Predicts

By G. B. LAL
International News Service Science Editor

NEW YORK, May 16—Dr. Serge Voronoff, world famous for his monkey gland rejuvenation experiments, predicted in an exclusive interview that "the average life of human beings would be extended to nearly 150 years," when grafting of glands becomes a general practice.

Accompanied by his wife, who is 14 years younger than himself, Dr. Voronoff arrived from Europe on the liner Normandie. Tall, well built, vital looking, although he is in his seventieth year, Dr. Voronoff attributed his splendid physical condition and mental agility to the use of his own rejuvenating treatment.

He gave a broad picture of his latest methods of gland grafting, their results and future possibilities, as follows:

"It is true that some of the most illustrious European statesmen have benefitted by the grafting of the glandular tissues.

"But, of course, giving their names would be betrayal of professional ethics.

"The important point is, that in men of 65 to 70 years of age, and older, the most significant result of the treatment is the stimulating effect upon the brain.

"As a result of the grafting of gland tissues, elderly persons had a revival of their mental powers, which had begun to wane considerably. The memory was good again, new ideas began to grow in the mind which had become sterile.

"Among my patients many have reached the age of 85, and they appear to be doing well mentally and physically.

"Assuming that the first grafting of gland tissues is done at the age of 65, the effect may last as long as ten years, the average period being about seven.

"Now, a second treatment can be given. Its beneficial results, however, are likely to be relatively shorter, say about four or five years.

"We are daily improving our methods of treatment. In the light of experiments already made, on patients and on animals, I am convinced that we can learn to prolong human life very considerably."

King, Queen Reach Quebec Tomorrow

ABOARD EMPRESS OF AUSTRALIA, May 16 (Canadian Press)—This liner carrying King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to Quebec for their tour of Canada and the United States sped along the Gaspe Coast well up the St. Lawrence river in bright sunshine today.

At Father Point a pilot is to board the liner this afternoon for the last lap of her 11-day voyage from England.

Approximately two days behind schedule, because of fog and ice hazards, the Empress now is expected to reach Quebec tomorrow morning. Today's weather was the best since the sailing from Portsmouth May 6.

Promotion of Rear-Admiral G. F. B. Edward-Collins, commander of the British cruiser escort, to the rank of vice-admiral was announced and the cruiser Southampton fired a 21-gun salute to the King in recognition of the honor.

Northern lights played over the clear sky during the night as the liner and her escort negotiated the great waterway off the northeastern tip of the Gaspe Peninsula.

RUSH PREPARATIONS

While Pilot Auguste Santerre, veteran of the St. Lawrence, waited at Father Point for the Empress of Australia, harried officials in Quebec tackled a multitude of last minute problems to insure smooth execution of arrangements from the moment the King and Queen step ashore.

The officials were hampered by the necessity of telescoping parts of the Canadian tour to make up for the delay forced on the Empress of Australia by fog and ice. Arrangements for Their Majesties to spend June 8-11, inclusive, in the United States stood unaltered.

Other official headaches, some cured and some still under treatment, were to be classified roughly as follows:

Political problems involving sectionalism and alleged "herning in" on the royal program.

The complaints and representations of persons who had hoped for more intimate acquaintance with

FIT FOR A KING IS WHITE HOUSE 'ROYALTY MENU'

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP)—Beets and sweet potatoes, which are served on thousands of American tables every year, will become royal fare in June.

They are included on a tentative menu for the state dinner to be given King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Unless something is scratched off by market conditions, this will be the dinner menu:

Clam Cocktail
Calves' Head Soup
Broiled Fillet of Flounder
Mushroom and Wine Sauce
Sliced Tomatoes
Boned Capon
Cranberry Sauce
Peas, Buttered Beets
Sweet Potato Puffs
Frozen Cheese and Cress Salad
Maple and Almond Ice Cream
Coffee

There's not a French word on the list and nothing that has to be imported. Dishes were suggested for Mrs. Roosevelt's approval after Mrs. Henrietta Nesbitt, the First Lady's housekeeper, studied menus served to the King and Queen in Paris, at the Guildhall in London and at numerous other functions.

When these menus were translated into English, they indicated to Mrs. Nesbitt that King George and Queen Elizabeth like rather simple food. That made it easy, because the Roosevelts like simple food, too.

The dinner menu is subject to change if the White House receives a reply to an inquiry regarding the British rulers' favorite dishes.

Fare planned for their private luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt is as follows:

Minted Melon Balls
Jellied Bouillon
Broiled Sweetbreads with Mushrooms
Asparagus and Potato Chips
Hearts of Lettuce, Roquefort dressing
Strawberry Shortcake
Coffee

Breakfast for their majesties will be upon their order, but dispatches from London indicate that the king likes the typically American orange juice, toast and coffee. His favorite nightcap is hot milk of cocoa, a taste acquired while in the navy.

Radcliffe and Harvard do their part for Hollywood today—each offering a couple of "mighty interesting" prospects to filmland.

It all happened at the Hasty Pudding Club at Harvard as part of the "Gateway to Hollywood" talent search, with handsome Herbert Rawlinson, screen star, acting as scout. All four prospects are to have tests.

The Radcliffe girls are Mildred Madden and Ruth Gillerman, the latter the feminine lead in the Harvard Dramatic Club show.

The Harvard youths are David Sheppard of New Jersey, a junior who played the lead in "Fair Enough," the Hasty Pudding Club's recent show, and Joseph Legendre, who was chosen on the basis of physique, looks, voice and general dramatic qualifications.

Another young Boston lady who indicated to Rawlinson she might be interested in going to Hollywood, too, was Miss Lucy Cochrane of the society set—a striking, blue-eyed blonde.

'Turn on Heat!' Farmers Urge Weatherman

Fur-lined asparagus beds, with electric heating pads for strawberry patches and oil-burning peach trees are being considered today by perplexed men-of-the-soil from the rock-bound shores of Cape Cod to the ice-clad firs of Maine as no change in temperature was forecast for the next 24 hours.

Continuing frosts have set back by two or three days that moment when New Englanders can approach, with a yum-yum and a couple of lickety-lips, a succulent dish of home-grown asparagus, while native strawberries have been indefinitely delayed.

The real worrying, however, is being done by fruit growers.

Flying Swede Hopping Sea

Backman 'Gas-Tank' Races to Stockholm

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, May 16 (Canadian Press)—Carl Backman, Swedish aviator attempting a flight from America to Sweden, took off from Botwood Airport for Stockholm today at 5:10 a. m., local time (3:40 a. m., E. D. T.), according to word received here.

Flying a 90-horsepower, single-motored monoplane with a cruising speed of 110 miles an hour, Backman landed at Botwood last night after a hop from Bangor, Me. He arrived at Bangor Sunday night with the explanation that he had flown non-stop from St. Louis, Mo.

Backman was quoted by Bangor airport attendants as saying he was one of three aviators in a "race" from America to Sweden. He spoke English brokenly and was described as slim, blond and 27 years old.

His plane has no radio and apparently was equipped with few of the instruments needed for transatlantic flying. Its seat was about 18 inches wide and a gasoline tank blocked his view to the right. The rest of the cabin was full of auxiliary tanks.

Backman told Bangor airport attendants he would try to reach Stockholm and had mapped a course of about 2300 miles.

Without fanfare, Backman took off from Bangor airport in a tiny monoplane described by James Dinegan, U. S. Airways observer here, as a "flying gas tank."

Dinegan said the audacious Swede had no radio, only a few sandwiches and some coffee, but 160 gallons of gasoline, practically a capacity load.

Airport attaches estimated the plane had a cruising range of about 4000 miles.

The cabin of Backman's ship was so crowded with auxiliary fuel tanks, said Dinegan, the flyer virtually had to wedge himself into his seat.

Backman Learned To Fly in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 16 (AP)—Carl Backman, aviator who took off today on a flight from America to Sweden, learned to fly here 10 years ago.

After the training, he returned to Sweden and became a professional pilot. He came back to the United States last fall. For a time he lived in Chicago. He arrived in St. Louis last week and left for Bangor, Me., last Sunday morning.

The plane Backman is flying is the same one in which Clare Burch, head of the Monocoupe Corporation, St. Louis, flew nonstop from California to New York in 23 hours, 26 minutes last month.

Burch explained the flight is to demonstrate that a small ship properly equipped can make a transatlantic crossing.

WAIT SALTONSTALL'S RULING ON PATRIARCA

After receiving reports from departments involved in the release of Raymond L. S. Patriarca from prison and his subsequent trip to Florida, Governor Saltonstall was due today to announce his decision as to whether the ex-gunman is out of the state without legal consent.

On the governor's decision hinged important actions prepared by the special commission probing the pardons scandal, as Patriarca's testimony, if available, will be invaluable, members said.

Pushing investigation of circumstances leading to Patriarca's release, the commission will go to state prison today or tomorrow to interview Benjamin Tilley, suave gunman sentenced with the former Rhode Island "Public Enemy No. 1."

Documents implicating politicians, lawyers and others, together with disclosure that $1000 was paid a political figure for a pardon, have been received by the commission, it was revealed.

Much of the data were included in letters, most of them signed, which have been pouring into the State House since the probe commission was organized.

While the commission was holding its first meeting at the State House, Gov. Saltonstall started a persona' checkup of the pardon granted to Raymond Patriarca after he had served 83 days of a minimum three-year term and of his present absence from the State.

TALKS WITH LYMAN

Although he related that he and Corrections Commr. Arthur T. Lyman had conferred and assented to Patriarca's honeymoon journey, Saltonstall said he would ask Lyman for a complete report on the matter.

All data thus far in the hands of the probe commission, including records for the past 10 years, summoned by the investigators, has been turned over to Atty. Samuel Hoar, commission counsel, and State Detective Lieut. Joseph Ferrari, for an exhaustive inquiry.

PLAN JURY PROBE INTO DEATH OF POTTER PALMER

SARASOTA, Fla., May 16 (INS)—A grand jury investigation into circumstances surrounding the mysterious death of Potter D'Orsay Palmer, 34, much-married heir to a $10,000,000 Chicago hotel fortune, appeared certain today.

The young playboy, whose romantic escapades put him periodically on the front pages of the nation's newspapers from the time he was 23 years old, died of a cerebral hemorrhage, immediate cause of which appeared to be cloaked in mystery.

According to Sheriff C. J. Hutches, Palmer was knocked down last Thursday in a fist fight with Kenneth Nosworthy, brawny young meat cutter.

TAUNTED BY PALMER

Nosworthy surrendered to the sheriff, but was released without charge, the officer explaining:

"Nosworthy came in and talked to us, but we have no evidence the fight was the cause of Palmer's injury. Nosworthy said he would be available at any time we wanted to question him."

The fight occurred at a picnic of the Bradenton Junior Chamber of Commerce. The sheriff quoted Nosworthy as saying:

"All afternoon Palmer kept taunting and insulting me. I don't know just why. I had never seen him before. Then he swung at me with a bottle.

"There was only one thing to do and I did it—I hit him."

According to witnesses, there was no indication Palmer had been seriously hurt by the blow. He remained at the picnic for some time afterward and seemed all right.

DOUBT DEATH CAUSE

The following evening he went to a party. The next day, Saturday, he collapsed. In view of this, the sheriff said there was doubt whether Palmer's fatal hemorrhage actually resulted from the blow.

It was not announced whether Palmer himself made any statement. At his bedside when he died were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Honore Palmer of Chicago, and his fourth wife, the former Louise Lowery Abatiello, who met Palmer while she was working in a roadside hamburger stand and married him last December after a whirlwind courtship.

Pending the jury probe, Frank Redd, Jr., justice of the peace, ordered a coroner's inquest into Palmer's death.

Palmer's Young Brother Died of Like Injury

CHICAGO, May 16 (INS)—The strange death in Sarasota, Fla., of Potter D'Orsay Palmer today recalled to Chicagoans that his younger brother, Honore, died under strikingly similar circumstances in New York on Feb. 7, 1938.

Potter Palmer's death was ascribed to a cerebral hemorrhage, possibly resulting from a blow suffered four days before in a fist fight.

Honore also succumbed to a cerebral hemorrhage, believed by doctors to have resulted from a brain injury sufferedin Paris several years earlier.

Honore was 29. Potter Palmer was 34.

Bill to Aid Judges Favorably Reported

A bill that would put 21 judges of the busiest district courts in Massachusetts on a full time basis stood favorably reported today by the legislative committee on judiciary.

It would give them $9000 a year, bar them from practising law privately. Statisticians have estimated that the bill, if passed, would cost the Commonwealth an additional $83,000 annually.

NEW HOSPITAL SERVICE

Newton Hospital is to expand its service, accepting for medical attention all emergency cases originating in the city, it was announced today. Mayor Childs sponsored the extension.

Dr. Donald V. Munro, famed surgeon, today planned a delicate brain operation at City Hospital to save the life of 16-year-old Laura Nickerson of Howes street, Roxbury, the girl who tried to take her life after a love quarrel.

She leaped from a second story window of her home, Sunday after a quarrel the preceding night with Gilbert McQuarry, of Dale st., to whom she had been engaged.

An operation planned yesterday after injury was determined as a serious brain laceration, was postponed until parental consent was obtained.

GUN RULE OF MINES EXTENDED

HARLAN, Ky., May 16 (AP) — National Guard troop protection for coal miners wishing to work has been extended into Bell County.

Gov. Chandler at Frankfort revealed today that some militiamen are stationed in Bell County, but are part of the unit on duty in Harlan County.

He said the order for troops to go to Harlan, where operators refused to sign a "union shop" agreement with the United Mine Workers, provided for guardsmen "to preserve law and order in Harlan County and its environs."

A National Guard officer was relieved of his command today for failure to "show the proper aggressiveness" as 13 additional mines, 19 in all, opened in the disturbed Harlan soft coal field under the protective guns of state troops.

Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, in announcing the officer's removal, said he had been sent home and his machine gun troop, on duty yesterday at the Totz trouble zone, broken up and distributed among other units.

It was at Totz that C. V. Bennett, general manger of the Harlan Central Coal Company, reported an automobile filled with miners returning from work was attacked by pickets and stones hurled through the winshield. No one was hurt. Bennett also reported 150 to 200 pickets were "threatening." Several units of troops were rushed to the spot and spent the night.

Fight Over Pastor Splits Maine Town

SOUTH BERWICK, Me., May 16—It's brother against brother, sister against sister and neighbor against neighbor in the schism which has split the congregation of the Free Baptist Church here over the activities of Rev. Andrew Mc-Allister, its 27-year-old pastor. And the whole town is in an uproar over the controversy.

One group of parishioners, reported to number about 35, has retained counsel to oust Rev. Mr. McAllister from the church and parsonage, with the threat of arrest as a trespasser if he stays.

CROSS TO CRUCIFY HIM

Rev. Mr. McAllister has countered with an attachment on the property for $500 for alleged nonpayment of back salary.

And both sides are seeking control of the board of vestrymen, numbering six—two of whom are against the pastor, two for him, and two non-committal.

Both sides marked time today pending the meeting of vestrymen and Sunday's services, at which time the young cleric is expected to issue "the blast of a lifetime."

The row came to a spectacular head last night, when the protesters gathered at the church for a meeting, only to find it locked against them, and an eight foot cross over the doorway. Nailed to the cross was a crude sign which read, in the flicker of a flashlight:

ARRESTED IN AUTO

"Hypocrites, you have done everything to your pastor. Here is the cross. Now, why don't you crucify him?"

Unimpressed, the men and women withdrew to an empty lodge hall, where, by the light of a kerosene lamp, the ouster vote was taken, and a resolution adopted calling for employment of counsel and McAllister's arrest for trespassing if he doesn't leave immediately.

Even while the opposition meeting was under way, Rev. Mr. McAllister presided at an ice cream social at the parish house—and the man who turned the handle of the ice cream freezer was Woodbury Lord, brother of Walter F. Lord, clerk of the church, who presided over the opposers.

Some weeks ago Rev. Mr. McAllister was arrested for driving an automobile without a Maine license, and was subsequently fined $15 and costs. The following Sunday he preached on "My Experience as a Jailbird at Midnight." He has also campaigned against local beer halls, and is credited partly with responsibility for the town voting dry.

His opposition charges that his "love of publicity" unfits him for his pastorship. He counter-charges that his opposition's "Communism" is responsible for the split.

Food Stamp Scheme Starts; Wait Results

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 16 (INS)—Little confusion marked launching here today of the unique federal food stamp plan which was hailed generally by government officials, relief recipients and grocers.

An estimated 400 welfare clients had streamed through the routine of exchanging stamps for groceries up to noon.

James S. Allen, national director of the scheme, said a six-month tryout would be necessary before merits of the system could be gauged accurately. He expects the peak demand in Rochester about Thursday.

Ten thousand home relief checks were mailed yesterday and recipient are expected to storm the stamp offices and food centers in increasing numbers beginning tomorrow.

Rochester grocers viewed the plan as a boon to their business.

Economists, government officials, social workers and farmers were awaiting the results with keen interest.

The plan is voluntary but only relief families or those maintained by WPA work are eligible for participation. They can purchase orange hued 25-cent stamps in one dollar units not exceeding $10 at any one time. With each one dollar purchase of the orange stamps, they will receive free from the FSCC 50 cents worth of blue stamps.

The orange stamps can be used like money for the purchase of any article excluding liquor, beer, wine and tobacco on the shelves of the corner grocery.

The blue stamps can be exchanged for food which the FSCC has placed in the category of "surplus commodities." At present, there are eight—butter, oranges, grapefruit, dried prunes, white flour, graham flour, corn meal and eggs.

Pal Pushes Boy, 2, to His Death

Pushed off an abandoned wharf by an unidentified playmate, a two-year-old boy was drowned today in Chelsea creek at the foot of Front street, Chelsea.

The victim, Frederick Kuczrowski of Front street, was pulled out of the water by his uncle, Joseph Kuczrowski, who ran frantically up Broadway with the child's body in his arms.

Shouts of the uncle for help brought the police ambulance. Patrolman John P. O'Neill attempted artificial respiration, as the boy was rushed to Chelsea Memorial hospital.

Doctors there, after using a respirator on the victim for 15 minutes, pronounced him dead. They said the child must have been in the water a considerable time before the body was recovered.

Parents of the drowned boy are Chester and Rose Kuczrowski.

They said little Frederick and his three-year-old brother, George, were playing near the creek.

According to the mother, young George told her a neighbor's boy came along and shoved Fred off the wharf.

Girl Friends Cost Him Wife

Her husband made her get out of bed, after midnight, to drive one of his girl friends home in the family auto, Mrs. Elmira M. Collins of Blue Hill avenue, Milton, testified in Dedham probate court today.

She won an uncontested divorce and Judge Joseph R. McCoole awarded her $6 a week alimony.

She further testified her husband, James, stayed out late nights with other women and drank to excess. When she questioned him, he struck and slapped her, she told the court.

BACKUS DEMAND SPURNED

Demand by John H. Backus that depositions be taken from more than a score of brokers and attorneys and read at his ouster hearing will be turned down by the Public Utilities Commission, it was indicated today.

Hearings in the ordered removal of Backus as director of the Blue Sky division of the commission will continue before that board tomorrow.

At the same time the commission agreed to the demand of Backus' attorney, Joseph Scolponetti, that four other persons, two of them members of Gov. Saltonstall's official family, may appear for questioning by the defense.

They are Harcourt Amory, treasurer of the Republican State Committee; Lothrop Withington, Boston attorney; Carroll L. Meins and Daniel J. Lynch, secretaries to the governor.

Both Lynch and Meins agreed to testify, but as only Lynch was available, Scolponeti refused to put him on at this time, declaring orderly presentation of the defense required that Amory and Withington be called first.

Amory is the broker about whom the case of the governor against Backus revolves. It was alleged by the governor that Backus, at a legislative hearing, charged Amory "fathered" the governor's bill to abolish the Blue Sky Division.

Hunt Attackers Of Patrolman

Two roughly dressed men, each about 30, who hurled an officer to the street and tried to run their car over him after he started to question them concerning a stolen auto, were sought by Charlestown police today.

Their victim was Patrolman Leo Hearns. While bruised and partly stunned, Hearns fired five shots at the fleeing pair. Their car raced out of sight on Cambridge street, Charlestown, and was found abandoned an hour later.

The patrolman was on duty near the Somerville line when he noticed the car parked on Cambridge st., near Carter st. It had been reported stolen a short time before.

How 2 Child Victims Fared

This is intended for two, big, brave automobile drivers.

It's to let them know that a little girl is painfully injured and is at Boston City Hospital, while a little boy has lost his most prized possession—his bicycle. But, then, maybe neither of the two big, strong automobile drivers ever had bicycles.

The little girl is Lillian Rice, 11, of 52 West Fifth street. She was roller-skating near her home when Automobile Driver No. 1 knocked her down, then ran away. Two fingers were broken, and she was horribly bruised. Terrence Rooney, also 11, of 86 West Fifth streeet, was on his way to the store when knocked off his bicycle by Driver No. 2, who also ran away . . . In the picture on Page 1 he is showing Lillian all that is left of the bike. Both children were struck in South Boston.

Feared Loss Of Job; Found Dead in Store

PLYMOUTH, May 16—He was afraid he was going to lose his job.

So Harold W. Hannon, manager of a Five and Ten-Cent store here, told his wife to "be prepared for anything." The he went out, saying he was going back to the store to work, although it was long past closing time.

Early today, alarmed because her husband didn't come home, Mrs. Hannon went to the store, and failing to get in, summoned a girl employe who had a key.

There they found Hannon in a rest room, slumped lifeless in a chair. Two jets under a gas plate were open.

Besides his wife, Hannon left two sons, six and nine years old. He was a member of the Old Colony Club.

BLIND SON ON TRIAL AS KILLER

WORCESTER, May 16—"Flaming hatred" for his aged father inspired a blind son to murder the parent with an ice-pick in a quarrel over liquor, a Worcester superior court jury, trying the son for his life, was told here today.

The defendant, John Weicjek, 43, sat impassive between two deputy sheriffs as Assistant District Attorney Alfred B. Cenedella assailed him for "viciousness of heart" which caused him to "lose the natural affection of a son for his father."

"Filial love was supplanted by a flaming hatred which never abated until the son's hands were stained with the parent's blood," Cenedella asserted in his opening for the state.

He said Weicjek's blindness did not prevent him from distinguishing a $1 bill from a $2, recognizing footsteps, doing his own cooking and pursuing many normal activities.

Fatal stabbing of the father, Michael Weicjek, 67, occurred last November, in the Weicjek home in Siegel street, according to the assistant district attorney.

He said the son had attacked the father on previous occasions, once throwing him down a flight of steps, once slashing his face with a knife or a pair of scissors while he slept.

Dr. John C. Ward, Worcester County medical examiner, the first witness, testified Weicjek, Sr., died of a stab wound in the heart. He said the ice-pick was wielded with terrific force, penetrating the breasthone.

Aged Man Found Dead in Mystery

LEOMINSTER, May 16 (AP)—Francis Xavier Noel, 69, was found dead in his basement apartment today under circumstances that led police to begin an investigation.

Noel, a deep gash on the right side of his head, was found on the kitchen floor by a wood delivery man, Aristide Lehoux. Nearby was a noverturned rocking chair.

The family of Levi Bergeron, upstairs, told police Chief George H. Smith they heard a sound at about 3 a. m. as of "chairs falling." Medical Examiner John J. Curley said he was considering both the possibilities of slaying and accident.

Italian Nuncio Received by Pope

VATICAN CITY, May 16 (AP)—Pope Pius today received the papal nuncio to Italy, Archbishop Francesco Borgongini Duca.

Since the nuncio has been in contact with the Italian government concerning the Pope's moves on behalf of peace it was considered probable that he and the Pontiff discussed the attitude of Italy toward those overtures.

Dry Land 'Herring Run' Tangles Traffic

MIDDLEBORO, May 16—For a time today even the state troopers thought the herring, usually confined to their runs upstream to spawning grounds, had gone a little daffy, for the herring were all over the road and were having a poor time of it.

So were hundreds of motorists, because they were stalled along Route 44, on both sides of this apparent phenomenon, and those daring motorists who tried to go through found their wheels skidding and sliding.

More frugal motorists were content to let the time tick by while they scooped up the wiggling herring and stuffed car trunks full, enough for many a mess, to come—and enough to keep them deodorizing the trunks for the rest of the summer!

But this strange, dry-land herring run wasn't a phenomenon at all, the troopers learned when they discovered a truck driver at the far end of the mass patiently trying to shovel the fish back into his truck.

He was on his way to Boston from the nearby fishery, he said, and the tailboard of the truck dropped, letting the whole load of herring slither into the highway.

It took several hours to make the road passable.

Senators Split Over 'Buy American' Bill

WASHINGTON, May 16 (INS)—A Senate appropriations committee fight over the "buy American" amendment to the pending navy supply bill brought the congressional battle over President Roosevelt's purchase of Argentine canned corn beef for the navy to a climax today.

Senator O'Mahoney (D.) Wyoming, championed the amendment, already approved by the House, and fought a minority in the committee opposing the proposal.

URGES STRICT EMBARGO

The amendment would prohibit purchase of non-American products with navy funds.

Senator Byrnes (D.) of South Carolina, subcommittee chairman, was cool to the amendment, and Senator Burke (D.) of Nebraska openly led opposition forces.

Burke countered the proposed amendment with the charge that it is useless to place in one supply bill a provision to keep out foreign products when the country is "flooded" with them.

He predicted, instead, enactment of legislation for an embargo to keep out of the United States all foreign agricultural products that compete with American farm commodities.

"Only 48,000 pounds of canned beef for use of the Navy are involved in this controversy with the President," observed Burke. "Almost 80,000,000 pounds are brought into this country from abroad each year.

Only 2 See Man Battle Big Snake For His Life

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—Only two spectators—each paid a dime to get in—saw a man's battle for life against an angry python at the New York World's Fair.

Dr. Hal Hall, keeper in the "Live Monster Show," had leaned over a tank to tend Big Boy, a 30-foot python, yesterday when one of the giant reptiles behind him worked its head out of a leather muzzle and struck.

The python — non-poisonous — clamped its jaws on Dr. Hall's forearm and quickly wrapped two coils around his upper arm and knee.

Seven attendants, summoned by the keeper's frantic cries, labored for ten minutes to release him. His injuries apparently were not serious.

Britain to Call 40,000 'Rookies'

LONDON, May 16 (AP)—Britain will call up between 40,000 and 50,000 conscripts July 1 for training, Labor Minister Ernest Brown announced today in the House of Commons.

This will be the first group of youths aged 20 to receive training under the conscription bill now before the House.

"Subsequent groups will be called up for training at intervals of two months," Brown said.

(The first annual contingent called for six months' compulsory military training under the bill is expected to total about 200,000.)

Brown also disclosed that a number of naval reservists would be called for three months' training beginning June 15, to be followed by a second class September 15 to serve for a like period.

FEAR NEW HOLY LAND CLASHES

JERUSALEM, May 16 (AP)—Tension increased throughout the Holy Land today as Jews and Arabs made ready for further conflict over the British Palestine plan to be announced tomorrow.

Jews already had made plans for united resistance beginning with a 24-hour strike Thursday to be followed by further measures designed to cut off all Jewish communities from contact with local authorities.

Indication of intense feeling was given when Jerusalem awoke to find several large shop windows smeared with red signs saying:

"We are bringing illegal immigrants into the country, if necessary, under Jewish armed guards."

New WPA Fight

Woman Aids Foxes' Stork

HOOKSETT, N. H., May 16 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Darjna is waging a single-handed war with Works Progress Administration to prevent blasting of a ledge near her black fox farm.

The 44-year-old housewife is not opposed to a highway near her home, but she demands that WPA Administrator William P. Fahey delay blasting until July, when the mother foxes have been given a chance to rear their young.

"They won't set off that blast," says Mrs. Darjna. "I'll sit right on top of it if I have to and they can blow me to Kingdom Come."

Fahey is determined, too. He said the blasting was postponed from March out of deference to Mrs. Darjna, and now that turnpike must be finished."

BARRED FROM OFFICE

Although former Mayor O'Brien's motion for arrest of judgment in the earlier embezzlement case was denied earlier in the day by Judge Lewis H. Goldberg, the jail sentence was deferred actual sentence until after the tasked trial is completed.

To sentence a man while he is on trial, Judge Goldberg said, "is not conducive to justice."

O'Brien's counsel James P. Rich, argued on the new trial motion that the offense of embezzlement is now merged in the statutory crime of larceny, and that inasmuch as O'Brien was cleared of larceny charges, the embezzlement conviction could not hold

PLANS STATE ACTION

When it was first suggested that passenger service to some stations be discontinued a counter-proposal was made calling for divorcement of the two railroads and reorganization of the Old Colony as a separate entity

Governor Saltonstall announced coincidentally with relation of the railroad's plan, that he has appointed a committee of seven to begin a study at once to determine what the state can do about it.

The seven are

Lieutenant Governor Horace T. Cahill, Elliott Wadsworth, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Attorney James A. Daly, O. Perry Richards, banker and a member of the Plymouth town council; Irving L. Shaw, prominent Quincy businessman; Ernest Sparrell, businessman of Norwood, and Eben S. Towne of Brockton

CALLS RAIL CONFERENCE

The first meeting of the seven was held today to organize the committee.

The governor also called upon the Boston & Maine, the Boston & Albany and the Boston Elevated Railway to send experts to the committee meetings to determine what can be done.

He also sent letters to the officers, directors and bondholders of both the New Haven railroad and the Old Colony, asking their cooperation in any plan which may be put forward by the committee.

The governor urged the committee and the experts to report back to him by June 30, so a course of action may be worked out prior to the hearing scheduled before Judge Hincks on June 15.

THAT THE NEW DEAL is regarded by leading Communists as [illegible] was made clear [illegible] when Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party of America, [illegible] Madison Square Garden at the Washington birthday [illegible]

Browder [illegible] Communist support for a third term for President Roosevelt [illegible] boldly said:

"It (the Communist Party) must therefore look for a victory of the New Deal wing in the Democratic convention, or, failing that, face the alternative of breaking up, dispersal and defeat without a fight, or the launching of a new party of its own.

"Between a Garner-Glass-Wheeler Democratic Party and a Hoover-Dewey-Taft Republican Party it has no choice.

"The radical one-third of the voters find it necessary, therefore, to wish for and work for victory of the Roosevelt wing in the Democratic convention. But, having as yet no guarantee of such a victory, it must prepare for alternative action in case of defeat at the hands of the Garner-Glass forces."

In other words, he says that the Communist Party faces annihilation if it does not capture the New Deal physically as it has already done politically. And he names as his 'leader' President Roosevelt.

If, further according to Browder, an American "radical" and not a member of the country cannot capture the New Deal entirely, they must then organize a party of their own—which means in plain language a repetition of many 'POPULAR FRONT,' which was the cause of the civil war in Spain and the collapse of France into a Socialist dictatorship.

Then to the [illegible] audience Browder unveiled the purposes and aims of the Communists but the close affinity between them and the New Deal which he said:

"The Progressive and Democratic majority is a coalition between the Democratic Party and the independent radical one-third of the electorate. President Roosevelt has embodied that coalition and by his leadership has consolidated and strengthened it.

"If the coalition is to continue through the 1940 election to victory it can only be under the same type of leadership and policy."

This must be [illegible] reading for all AMERICAN Americans.

It must be [illegible] for all those millions of Americans who supported President Roosevelt and his New Deal policies in 1936 in the belief that they were a new part and parcel of the Monroe policy for REVOLUTION and RUIN directed right on our own soil.

HERE'S HOW madame was rigged for a trip to Europe, when the Wright Brothers were toddlers, when Thomas Alva Edison was a telegraph operator, when Adolph Zukor was sweeping out a fur shop.

"An elastic valise and a hand-satchel," says the book, "at the side of which is strapped a water proof, are enough baggage to start with.

"Of dresses, three are required—one a traveling dress of brown de bege, a double calico wrapper of black or hair-striped silk. The latter is best, because it is light, because it does not take dust, because it does not crush easily and because by judicious making and management it can be arranged into several costumes which will serve for city sight seeing throughout the journey and be good afterward to bring home.

"Then, if there is room, an old black silk or black alpaca skirt may be found useful, and an embroidered batiste polonaise.

"Add to these a black sash, a couple of belts, an umbrella with chatelaine and requisite attachments, a pair of neat-fitting boots and pair of slippers, some cuffs, small standing collars and a few yards of trassing, a striped or checkbar shawl, a 'cloud' for evenings on deck, some handkerchiefs and gray and brown kid gloves, and, with a few necessary toilet articles, you have an outfit that will take you over the world, and can all be comprised in the space indicated, leaving room for a small whisk broom, essential to comfort, and a large palm leaf fan."

Political Parade -r- by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, May 20—It is said that when Caesar's lieutenant in Gaul, Julius Caesar, played a popular tune of the day, "The World is Turned Upside Down."

That ought to be set to swing and made the national hymn, as it were, of the New Deal.

This country at least, has certainly been turned upside down.

One would imagine that Congress would be aware of international dangers which are created by reckless spending, but we have seen time and again the loudest critics of this spending—in the lobbies and on the public platform—joining in the spending either openly, or by silent consent.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
"Master Chides His Pupils"

THE OTHER DAY we were amazed to hear from President Roosevelt a criticism of the Senate for increasing the hand-outs for agriculture by a sum equal to the first cost of the Panama Canal, without levying the taxes to care for the largesse.

This from the greatest spender of all time. The master chides his pupils for having learned so well the lessons he taught them! Can you beat it!

There is a naivety, an insouciance, a light-hearted inconsistency about Mr. Roosevelt which makes the study of him fascinating.

His New Deal has made a complete mockery of the budget system, as for six years we have seen the estimates of January [illegible] by the [illegible] Congress, [illegible] by the labyrinth of debt in which it has completely lost itself, abandons all hope of ever getting out, and turns the adventure into a perpetual picnic at a [illegible]

THE PRESIDENT'S very theories as to the structure of the American government have been at variance with the whole historic background.

Unable to obtain from the Supreme Court the kind of decision required to sustain the New Deal, he undertakes to pack the court.

Impatient at the handicap on spending imposed by a Congressional Comptroller, he demands the abolition of that office.

The President's whole conception of the United States as a Socialistic democracy disregards the Federal nature of the government. There was a time he even toyed with the idea of dividing the whole Republic into six or seven zones. Under such a system the States would have been passed into oblivion.

ANITA LOOS TO SEE BOOK AS PLAY

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, May 16.—Luther Adler, according to latest report, is the one who finally will appear in the Lee Shubert box in the revival of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." . . . Anita Loos, the scenarist, will return to New York this summer to witness a dramatization of her "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." It will be a period production with the cast wearing clothes of 1928. . . . Ina Claire rented her New York apartment Wednesday, and the next day ordered all the breakables moved out.

SINCLAIR LEWIS told this story last night, in discussing the frequent occasions when his name is confused with Upton Sinclair's. . . . When Lewis met Sinclair the latter said: "I didn't mind the mixup as long as they were attributing 'Main Street' to me. . . . But I started to mind it when they began attributing 'The Jungle' to you."

DUNCAN SISTERS

THE NEW Gabriel Lefkowitz production, which will be presented on property owned by the Duchess of Oxford, Nell Gwynn's Crown. . . . Next week the Lefkowitz office will serve to the press exactly the same dinner that was served to the King and Queen of England during their visit to Versailles. . . . The Duncan Sisters, now performing in New York, . . . Larry Gordon's fiancée will be one of the Park Central dancing girls. . . . George Perry, who has written the Lillian Gish Memoirs, . . . Dr. Edward Bowles, who is the member of the faculty of Yale most frequently quoted by Franklin P. Adams, . . . Dr. Lowell H. Hoffman, I. Townsend Burden, Jr., and Frederick Brown Harris, all graduated the Harkness Hall of Yale the same year.

LILLIAN HELLMAN has rented her Little Fever Road farm for a 100-acre estate in Pleasantville, N. Y. . . . John Marks, Jr., and Fred F. Finkelhoffe, authors of "It's a Boy!" . . . have become county agents. . . . Irvin Cobb and Rupert Hughes, Judge Rupert Hughes' son, whose resignation becomes effective at Yale, . . . doesn't expect to go into private practice.

THE GROUP THEATER, . . . preparing its next production, . . . is still trying to find a way of ascertaining audience-reaction without the necessity of first making an expensive presentation. . . . Before "Golden Boy" was produced, the cast assembled at the home of Bobby Lewis, who . . . has become a Group director, and there read their lines. . . . The only outsider permitted to witness this reading was Lewis' sister, Golda, who designs jewelry.

After each Odets line the cast turned to Golda, who . . . knowing she was an outsider and that the others were quite nervous, tried to remain cold and aloof and so . . . controlled . . . revealing her reactions. . . . She never was told that she was being used as a test audience.

EXCLUSIVE: Boston will be . . . its European royalty this summer, and . . . can begin to brush up on their etiquette. . . . The visitors will be Crown Prince Olav, . . . Princess Martha of Norway. . . . They will arrive here June 1 and proceed to Marblehead. . . . In Marblehead they will be the guests of an old college chum of Hamilton Hadley, and their prospective host is reported as teasing to the Coolidge tribe. . . . Whichever Coolidge it is, he and the Prince attended Oxford together. . . . [illegible]

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY. . . . C. Phalen Wetmore, the Suffolk Downs official, broke out loyally with a straw hat (a sailor) at the track's opening. . . . As the chill breezes kept the attendance thousands below what it should have been, the Wetmore lid seemed to be a hint and an appeal to the weather man. . . . Narragansett will announce a dividend of more than 40 cents a share within a day or two, and speculators will have to the Battle of Proxies with Walter O'Hara (only a month away), the dividend may be considerably larger, or even the highest in the track's history. . . . Dorothy Mary Dooley, daughter of the late Jimmy Dooley and latest of the famous New York stage family to enter show-business, made her debut at the Mayfair last night and the youngster displayed a singing style that is simple and sure-fire. . . . Mary's mother, Lois Dooley, who is married to Eddie Dowling, and her mother was Yvette Rugel before her marriage.

TWO OF THE YACHT CLUB BOYS . . . Ted Adler and George Kent's Don't Bother Me, the Suffolk Downs opening, and Vince Riley, a new race track story about a . . . [illegible]. . . . "I'm sure I could," . . . "But what about those three in back of me."

CHATTER: Lou Block, the Boston bandleader who has been playing . . . the Narragansett Hotel in Providence, signed last night to . . . the Friday Club, West Falmouth. . . . Lou's strategy calls for a little at every point where boy prospects are to be surrendered. . . . Mario, former maestro at the Copley-Plaza Merry-Go-Round, has taken over the same job at the Paddock Club. . . . Tom Holland, the former Latin Quarter mixologist, will try for a post at the Sheraton. . . .

Hugh C. McIntyre, the internal revenue supervisor, and James Cronin, of Boston, Hi, have been scaring themselves at Elbow Peach Bermuda. . . . Frank Sawyer, the taxicab man, has been so cock-sure that a sweeping defeat of Charlie Morrissey, the instructor, . . . at the Y. M. C. A. handball court. . . . Dearest Enemies

POOR Young PEOPLE

By MAY EDGINTON
Author of 'FAVORITE WIFE'

Who's Who and What's Happened:

DAY FLOWERS waited anxiously in her hotel room in London for the mother she hadn't seen in five years. She had spent this time living with her wealthy school friends. When the phone rang to announce her mother,

MRS. FLOWERS thought, "This is the most dreadful moment of my life. I'm sure I simply couldn't bear it if her mother still didn't want her. But when in the palm court of the hotel she found her mother having a cocktail with a young man, whom she introduced as

PETER PETERS, "a friend of mine," Day realized with sharp disappointment, that her mother hadn't changed.

Now Continue:

CHAPTER TWO

DAY HELD OUT her hand readily to the young man, for she had learned very carefully for a long time now never to make an enemy. She knew by instinct and instinct was very well developed in her those two had been discussing her ... that her mother ... had made up her mind as to what she was going to do.

... Well, Mrs. Flowers hesitated. "It was ...ways the other way," I ...rstood.

"Oh, but you can't say so! I have no intention not going to have any ...ntal ideas, Day, when I've ... was done my very utmost for ...

I wanted to tell you that I'm ...ed of being a parasite," Day said ... This was probably very sudden, ... brusque, in the first moments ... conversation with a mother ... she had not seen for nearly four years; but somehow dozens, scores hundreds of truths needed to be told. There were a thousand heaped-up confidences to be made ... if only one dared.

"I'm so wretched ... I must belong ... somewhere, mother. ... Don't you mind?"

Well, the person I belong to, ... you know. But you've never ... me for as if I had any right to ... as if you wanted ...

... how the first part of it was ... the first part of all that long ... with herself and her problems, during which the accusations ... and the resolutions against ... to ... except this ... Mother, mother!

BACKGROUND

... you aren't neurotic, Day."

"No, I'm not a bit neurotic but ... a more normal life, mother. I want some background."

She was putting it trivially and insufficiently, this great need of hers. But at last she had begun to say what had for so long been left unsaid.

"Perhaps I have never really explained to you, pet, that our income, that is, my income, is very small. But I'd hoped you'd see things for yourself. I've only $2500 a year and what with taxi; and . . . and all those years I had to keep you at school . . ."

"I'm not suggesting, mother, that I ... it of our ... a year. I don't ... to you."

But I want ... me she ... Day ... and ... to ... I ... I write to ...

Yes ... you ... are always ...

Well, ... mother, ... I can't bear ... ever ... what?" I can't ...

I have ... a friend ... here. She's ... with a ... Day ... a chance ... yet ... myself ... It would ...

How ... men-... ?

If ... short-hand and ... dress ... to be fed and ... while ... I am afraid ... do ... thing ... else."

"What have you in mind for me, then, mother?" And the long-guarded bitterness rushed out. "If you ... keep ... at all."

"Why, Day, ... Of course I have kept you in mind. Night and day. You have been my one great anxiety."

Boston Port Gains Noted

Additional evidence of shipping gains scored by the Port of Boston is offered by the latest report of the United States Engineer's office . . . And since the figures are based on actual ship movements the improvement shown makes impressive reading . . .

ANOTHER . . . feature of the report is the breadth of the gains.

A comparison for April, as well as for the first four months of the year, uncovers an upturn in ship traffic . . . Arrivals of domestic vessels during April totaled 428 compared with 419 a year ago.

And for the first third of 1938 the comparison is 1754 against 1549 . . . On the basis of sailings the figures show April, 1939, with 413 against 401 . . . While the four-month total is 1729 against 1542.

And domestic figures do not exhaust the supply of shipping cheer . . . Foreign vessel trips in April increased with 140 compared with 133 . . . And for the 1939 period the totals are 518 against 496.

BEST WEEK . . . Since the FHA began to operate is reported by the Rhode Island unit . . . W. Gordon Bennett, state director, gives the total of insured mortgages as $237,000 . . . Which building observers consider an excellent showing . . . Since establishment of the Rhode Island office there have been approximately 1000 families served . . . With the value of mortgage loans in the vicinity of $6,500,000 . . . Some 17 banks throughout the state are co-operating and to date no foreclosures have been reported . . .

A STUDY . . . In statistics is offered by the latest report of the New England Telephone Co. . . . With figures for the first months through March showing astonishing similarity for 1937-38-39 . . . Recessions, winter storms and manners of happenings calculated to vary results took place in the initial quarters of those years . . . Yet net income varied by amounts which seem to us much smaller than events warranted expecting . . . In March of this year it is also worth noting gross revenues stood at a figure well above the down year 1938 . . . And at a level a good bit above the relatively good year 1937 . . .

A BOSTON . . . Conference of Savings Bank Auditors and Comptrollers has been formed . . . It is identified with the National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers . . . Boston officers are Carl S. Page, of the Franklin Savings Bank, president . . . Sherman H. Shepherd, of the Suffolk Savings Bank, vice-president . . . And Alfred T. Carpenter, of the Institution in Roxbury and Vicinity, secretary-treasurer . . .

HIGH PRAISE . . . For the New England Council and the Engineering Societies of New England, Inc. . . . For their initiative in sponsoring N. E. Research Week . . . Is pointed out by Charles F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research Corp. . . . In a special statement issued today . . . His letter . . . warmly commending the various local organizations for their efforts . . . To be read at each of the luncheon meetings to be held this week . . . Wallace Dickson, director of research for the Council, tells us the program opens today with a meeting at Massachusetts State College . . . And continues through Friday in five New England states . . . With a final session held at the University Club in Boston.

MERRYLE STANLEY

RUKEYSER

Economic Commentator

Advertising Is Star Business Salesman

A one-third baked federal bureaucrat once advanced the proposition that, if cigarette manufacturers cut down on advertising, they would have funds available to increase their payments to farmers for raw tobacco.

This proposal is typical of theoretical misconception of the economic life of the people.

The first fallacy lies in failing to understand the basic importance of advertising—the star salesman of business—in expanding demand, and thus in increasing industrial and agricultural employment and income.

Secondly, it overlooks the fact that advertising, in the last analysis, creates buying of wages and salaries. Accordingly, arbitrary curtailment of advertising would create fresh unemployment and would dry up the purchasing power of commercial, industrial and professional workers who constitute the customers for tobacco and for other agriculture products.

Advertising gives employment to workers in the forests who fell trees, in plants for making wood pulp and newsprint, on railways and trucks which transport the raw materials and the finished periodicals, in advertising agencies; to writers, editors, printers, stereotypers, press men, advertising executives and solicitors, and to circulators on newspapers and magazines, as well as to the industrial employes of manufacturers who find customers through advertising.

Accordingly, if the bureaucrat's advice was taken, the net result would be vastly harmful to the national economy because it would reduce the exchange of goods and services and thus curtail opportunities for gainful employment all along the line. Such a policy would be especially harmful to farmers who would find, as a result, a colossal shrinkage in the demand for their products.

* * *

The case for advertising was recently effectively restated by a business executive, who was not interested in promoting the sale of white space. Speaking solely from the viewpoint of the economic uses of advertising to the buyer, W. T. Holliday, president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, in an address before the advertising affiliation at Cleveland, made some telling, yea saying remarks about advertising as a prosperity builder.

Brokers could find nothing particular in the trends to unsettle sentiment and attributed at least part of the set back to tired holders who apparently decided to reduce commitments in view of recent apathetic market performances.

Open Season on Boston's Suckerism

THERE'S A SWEET LITTLE HEADACHE being operated in Dewey Square, vis-a-vis with the South Station. A hole-in-the wall tout-shop is selling daily horse-picks at $5 a copy, sealed envelopes with secret selections. It does a roaring business. Well, that's legal enough!

AUSTEN LAKE

But here's the gimmick! You pay your $5 and draw a one-horse, sure shot. If the horse doesn't finish first or second, you just wander around tomorrow and collect your original $5 and . . . Police take notice! an additional dollar as consolation prize. That, too, seems perfectly sanitary to the naked eye!

But in the opinion of a State legal authority it constitutes a lottery, the definition of which is "any scheme in which a money prize is distributed for a game involving a cons deration."

But why get lathered about that, considering that the authorities countenance the Numbers Pool, the Sweepstakes sales and Beano games?

Answer—Because the tout-store is operated by an unlisted syndicate of New York operators without bond or responsibility, a curious condition which pertains to all tout-stores in Boston. All an operator has to do is swing off a train, rent a shop, hang out his "come-on" signs and print a stock of colored promises. The law isn't interested and if the going gets hot there is no assurance that he won't lam out of town with your $5 and in cheerful default of your $1 bonus. Didn't a Boston football pool operator vanish into thin air a year ago with a week's profits and no payoff?

Police Are Handcuffed

[illegible] asserted of [illegible]

There is no [illegible] And although the law has grabbed several of the horse parlors and [illegible] the [illegible] rules have always [illegible] a [illegible] and [illegible] feed on our sucker population [illegible]

[illegible] The cure seems simple. The law should require each and every [illegible] to register himself and file suitable bond. It should also require [illegible] to be mailed before post time to [illegible] against falsely advertised "winners [illegible]

Peregrinations of Col. Culpepper

A YEAR OR SO AGO A "COLONEL CULPEPPER" opened an office in a Bromfield st. building and advertised, "An astounding example of horse wizardry—a daily miracle of track prognostication." I still have his salmon pink flier among the race curiosa in my desk drawer! You should come up some day and see my collection!

The Colonel's service cost from $2 to $10 daily, depending on the degree of wisdom you wished. For ten bucks the Colonel gave you a penetrating pick; for three bucks a casual, ho-hum vision—both "guaranteed" of course! So, wanting his utmost, I bought a $10 envelope (Ed [illegible] at office expense) and caught a boss named Roman Soldier. But that evening, long after twilight, the Soldier's hostlers were out with lanterns waiting for him to finish.

Did Col. Culpepper advertise the naked truth next day? He did not! He published a bold face, congratulatory self-pat, saying, "I had it again! The Colonel rang the bell with Brass Monkey." So, feeling cheated and thwarted, I called at the Colonel's office. But the goat whiskered, embroidered waist-coated and claw-hammered gent was not in. Instead a pair of swarthy, perspiring buckeroos in their shirtsleeves were holding the fort. No! The Colonel was sipping his mid-morning julep. The Colonel was consorting with the intelligentsia of the track room. The Colonel was busy with barn society snooping for information. The perspiring pair were only a couple of hired office hacks.

So I pointed the ugly truth and next day the Colonel and his greasy retinue were gone. Only a vacant loft and a rubbish strewn floor remained. The Colonel had carried off his business under his floppy hat.

[illegible] to the fine print [illegible] a small proportion of our race players [illegible] Perhaps 90 per cent depend [illegible] wizards the newspaper rabbits [illegible] moonlit prophecies of the tipsters [illegible] are conscientious, charging 2 and [illegible] as accurate as may be. LANDIS 'STUDIES' DETROIT FARMS

CHICAGO, May 16 (INS)—The office of Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today announced that an investigation is underway into ramifications of the Detroit Tigers' farm system

Baseball Commissioner Landis said the investigation had been launched more than two weeks ago. At that time Jack Zeller, general manager of the Tigers was called to Commissioner Landis' office for a conference.

Zeller was said to have explained to Landis that the Tigers had only one working agreement, with the Beaumont club of the Texas League.

Both outfits have in force previous arrangements with clubs in the lesser minor leagues.

Landis last year declared all minor league players free agents and levied fines totaling $2[illegible] against six club owners affiliated with the St. Louis Cardinals [illegible].

Two years ago Landis gave Tom Henrich, big professional baseball from the Cleveland Indians or finding they had been [illegible] him up." Henrich signed with the New York Yankees soon after [illegible] for a reported bonus of $2[illegible].

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

Bobby Merritt on Another Winner | Style Parade at Suffolk Opening

WHEN ZOIC WON the $5000 added Plymouth Rock Handicap at the Suffolk Downs opening, Jockey Bobby Merritt pulled down $447 as his end of the spoils . . . This represented 10 per cent of the $4475 purse that went to H. E. Enger, owner of Zoic . . . Last Saturday at Narragansett Park Merritt picked up $441 when he brought Pagliacci in a winner in the Newport Handicap . . . Zoic only carried 100 pounds, and roared through the home stretch . . . Be Blue with Jockey J. G. Wilson ran a good race, but Zoic had too much fire in the closing rush.

The handle of $387,689 wasn't anything to be brushed aside lightly in view of the cool breezes sweeping in from the Atlantic Ocean and the fact the opening was on a Monday . . . The stewards suspended Jockey J. Bowen, up on Phalasan in the third race, for unfair tactics . . . Messrs. Thorp, Almy and Park have decided to keep a stiff hand on the jockeys . . . They are sure to have the co-operation of Judge Frank J. Bryan, state steward.

Jockey George Seabo checked in at Suffolk Downs after riding Challedon to victory in the Preakness at Pimlico . . . Seabo's cut of the rich Preakness purse was $5200 . . . No wonder every paperweight wants to be a jockey . . . One of the big news services that has the rights to send a detailed story of the races from the press box didn't like the idea of Suffolk Downs broadcasting three races, and made known its thoughts on the matter . . . It contends that the radio broadcast interfered with its concession . . . This protest will probably mean that the East Boston track will not broadcast more than two races a day in future.

Steve Mahoney is editor of a local paper that is getting out charts showing the past performances of horses running at Suffolk Downs . . . One of the New York racing papers, taking recognition of the new competition, flew in a special edition.

TOM THORP

Dave Wilson's magic was in evidence on opening day when his daily double combination of Deep Summer and Magic Margaret won to pay $16.80.

Gay Styles at Suffolk Opening

EVEN THE chilly weather could not get the decision over the latest Spring styles at the Suffolk opening . . . Men as well as women were on parade with the gayest in colors in clubhouse, Paddock Club and grandstand . . . The bright new colors in men's Spring clothes are livelier than many of the tips you receive from your favorite tout . . . I find that men and women who are getting places are always among the first to adopt the latest styles.

There was a soft cushion on the track . . . This will be helpful to the thoroughbreds in the 60-day meeting . . . The first year there was racing at Suffolk Downs the track was as hard as concrete, and many horses broke down or suffered serious stone bruises . . . Such a condition will not exist this year.

Dr. Gene Bradley of Marlboro once more represented the State in checking on all horses, and giving the saliva test to the winners . . . In Massachusetts, it is not uncommon for saliva tests to be taken of second and third place horses as well as of thoroughbreds that have acted peculiarly either before or during the running of a race . . . This procedure acts as a check on unscrupulous owners and trainers who would try to dodge a saliva test for their horses by having them finish second or third at juicy odds.

There were thousands of free passes for the opening provided you still consider a dukat under this heading that calls for a service and tax charge of 40 to 75 cents . . . Race goers are pass minded, and most of them insist on free tickets . . . They are then willing to wager the old bankroll on their own selections . . . Lou Smith was in the clubhouse, and when he opens Rockingham he will try to get away from both passes and service charges by a rate of 50 cents for the grandstand and $1 for the clubhouse.

In Florida, the dog tracks don't have passes, and have an admission charge of 25 cents . . . You drop your money into a slot in a turnstile, and then parade to the mutuel windows and try to come up with a ticket on a long shot.

It looked like a good day for the favorites when Deep Summer and Magic Margaret won . . . Then came Phalasan, a 4 to 5 shot, and ran out of the money . . . Which wrecked many a show parley . . . Tom McKay of Rockingham Park attended the opening.

Red Sox Will Receive Fine Welcome

THE RED SOX will receive a fine welcome when they play the Chicago White Sox at Fenway Park today . . . The Sox made a great showing on the road, and are still very much in the pennant fight . . . Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland will parade into Fenway Park in that order . . . With the Sox in a winning surge, baseball will hold its own against horse racing . . . The Sox were obliged to play sensational ball on the road to prevent the Yankees getting off to a big lead . . . Even without the services of DiMaggio and Gehrig, the Yankees kept winning . . . Baseball victories have become a habit with Joe McCarthy's club.

Boo Aging Canzoneri; 'Should Quit'—Referee

NEW ORLEANS, May 16 (AP)—Former Lightweight Champion Tony Canzoneri, the little fat man trying to make a comeback, knows today what it means when the ringside boys say "he used to be good once."

This is his home town. Last night thousands who had cheered him on the climb to the lightweight throne, stood up and booed when he fought a 10-round draw through a veil of blood with Nick Camarata, also a local product.

The first shock for the boys who had seen him in the great days came when he climbed through the ropes and bounced across the ring with a jerk in his walk.

Tony kept rubbing his double-chin and stroking a long patch over his right eye that had been basted open in a New York gymnasium more than a week ago.

The fight idled along, with Tony doing the heavier punching. He had sudden fits of furious fighting that looked like a man striking out at a wild dream. Camarata stabbed Canzoneri's eye to a red mush.

In his dressing room Camarata said:

"He's still got a pretty good right hand, and he's still smart."

Referee Ray Doian, who thought Tony had won, said:

"He ought to quit before he goes blind. He'll be back on his heels."

"Me," Tony said, "I'd like to come back if the folks will have me."

Dedham to Play Danvers Team

Dedham Country and Polo Club will be host to a veteran Danvers team in the third match of its rejuvenated polo season on Saturday afternoon at 3 on the picturesque club field.

Off to a victorious start with a 10-5 victory over Harvard varsity mallet men on the home field two weeks ago, the Dedham riders encountered a faster and more accurate hitting Crimson last Saturday at Gay Farm.

HARNESS TRAINER DIES

SPRINGFIELD, O., May 16 (AP)—Harry H. Stokes, 61, widely known trainer of harness horses, died today. At one time he was regarded in harness racing circles as one of the country's outstanding reinsmen.

Jim Braddock Preps Nova For Baer

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP)—Jim Braddock, ex-heavyweight champion, is up at Lou Nova's training camp at Nyack, N. Y., giving the young Californian free and explicit instructions on how to beat the wadding out of Maxie Baer in their fight at Yankee stadium June 1.

Braddock won his title from Baer in one of the big upsets of ring history, so he is in position to give Nova valuable pointers.

Jim, himself, is rounding gradually into condition preparatory to invading England early in June for a series of scraps.

Giants Grid Team Fined $800

NEW YORK, May 16 (INS)—The New York Football Giants, Inc., was fined $800, the maximum penalty for violation of the amusement tax law, of which it was found guilty last Friday.

Two employes of the corporation who were convicted had their fines suspended. They were Helen Mara, niece of owner Tim Mara, and Charles Chaplin. The court remarked that they had been sufficiently embarrassed and had merely been doing the bidding of their employer.

CASEYS, MURPHYS GO AT BRIGHTON FIELD

The Star of Sea nine of East Boston, a new entry in the Park League, surprised the after supper fans by knocking off the strong Casey Club of Neponset at the latter's home field, to jump into the lead in the west division.

Les Powers who twirled a two-hitter last week came to the rescue of his team mates in the late innings of the game when the Caseys started a rally, shutting them off with a few scattered hits.

Tonight the Noddle Islanders will entertain their old Catholic League rivals at American Legion Playground, East Boston, to try to even up for the 3-2 defeat they suffered at the Barry Playground last week.

After knocking off such teams as the St. Augustines and the Murphy Club the Heavenly Boys feel that the Saints from the Navy Yard district should be an easy touch.

MURPHYS PLAY CASEYS

It will be "Irish" night at the Rogers Park, Brighton, when the Murphys play host to the Caseys. Dick Casey will send Charlie Bird to the mound to try and get back in the win column, while the Murphys will send Jackowitz to the hill for a victory.

At the Healy Field in Roslindale, the "Townies" will be at home to the St. Alphonsus of Roxbury and plenty of action is due the fans of that district when the local favorite, "Jocie" Casala, will pitch for the "Townies."

The Mission Hill boys will counter with the mighty "Marty" McDermott who is no stranger to the twilight fans.

PALLIS PITCHES

In the final game of the evening, Bill Benson's all-star array of ball tossers will play their neighborhood rivals, the South Boston Town Club at the Strandway Stadium.

Jim Pallis is due to hurl for the Bensonites while Coolidge of O'Toole will be assigned to the mound for the boys from the point end of Southie.

Although having lost four out of the five games played, the South Boston Town Club will cause considerable trouble in the league this year if the consistent hitting of Cruikshank continues.

Striped Bass Up North River

By DARK MONTREAL

The striped bass run began in earnest in the North River over the week-end. Approximately 100 fish were taken on Sunday according to Irving Henderson, of Norwell Center, whose scales annually weigh thousands of pounds for anglers who keep records of the weights of their stripers.

Some fish were taken trolling between the railroad bridge and the 3A highway bridge at the river mouth but as many more were caught upstream by fishing from Union street bridge in Norwell or from the banks of the river.

Most of the fish scaled between 2½ and 4½ pounds. Russ Scholis took five from the bank, and Basil Neftel, yesterday, took three, weighing better than four pounds each.

Not many stripers were reported at Buttermilk Bay but in the Weesantik river nearly every one of approximately 50 boats killed good fish. Porter Holbrook and Cliff Farrand accounted for four good ones taken on a new type spoon.

Those on the river before sunrise when the fog lay dense as vaporized milk had the eerie and thrilling experience of rowing blindly among heavy surfacing fish that smashed bait just behind the boats.

Best fish reported at John Allen's place was an eight pounder taken by C. A. Whitney who arrived late, trolled for a half hour, cleaned his catch of four good stripers and went home before church time.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Sally: My little chickadee, Dark Montreal is a famous fly and the first on which I ever caught a fish.

• • •

Robert Teele, Lexington: Yes, I know of a good one fairly close by. Jeoney Dugan Brook in Concord is of the type you describe. Irving Reed, Belmont, took four nice brook trout from it Sunday.

• • •

L. D., Scituate: No, and I doubt if you take any flounders in Scituate harbor this spring. All that dredging has temporarily ruined the bottom fishing there.

• • •

Hamper, Boxfield: Hingham Sportsmen's Club is doing something like you describe, closing swampy areas and upper ends of Weir river feeder brooks in the hope that planted trout will spawn. You might contact Bill Crocker, Hingham civil engineer, through the club for details of the experiment.

• • •

Mike Young: You win the money. Rainbows spawn in spring, squaretails in the fall.

Will anyone who kills a striped bass with ripe roe in Massachusetts waters communicate with this department telling weight, length, girth and where taken?

Park Arbiters In Final Test

Completing a six weeks' course are more than 250 aspiring arbiters who have been given training in officiating.

National League Chief Umpire Quigley was the guest at the first session and Park Commissioner Long and School Director Bill Mullen have brought to the school, guest umpires at each session.

An examination covering the course's work will be conducted tonight and the successful candidates will be certified as semi-pro umpires.

St. Patrick's H. N. S. Holds Sporth Night

The Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury, Rev. Fr. James H. Doyle, director, will hold a baseball night in the old school building, Mt. Pleasant ave. and Forest st., tonight, starting at 8 o'clock.

Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox and Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox have been invited.

At the meeting of the society in the church last night, Rev. Fr. William J. Daley, diocesan director of Catholic literature, gave the men an interesting talk.

WERBER TARGET OF REDS' FANS

Cronin Counting on Rich to Down Yanks

After winning nine games in eleven starts, the Red Sox returned home today and will operate daily at Fenway Park until the first of next month . . . Woody Rich, who is rated as the best rookie hurler in the majors, flipped 'em at Jimmy Dykes' Chicago White Sox this afternoon . . .

Woody Rich

If his veteran pitchers can deliver, Manager Joe Cronin believes that Woody Rich will be able to spoil Joe McCarthy's summer . . . During this two weeks home stay, Manager Joe hopes to get his pitching corps straightened out . . . Too much relief work has ruined many great hurlers . . . Hughie Duffy made his first appearance here on the coaching lines this afternoon since he quit as manager of the Red Sox during the Frazee regime . . .

Charlie Burgess, who retired as professional at Woodland a year ago after almost 30 at the popular Auburndale course, entered the Newton Hospital this morning . . . He hasn't been too chipper of late and decided to get a check up on his trouble.

Henry McIvor, who was assistant pro at Brae Burn for years, will leave for Bald Peak early next month . . . Henry will make an ideal professional for the Wolfboro club . . . Few of the girls scored well at Pine Brook Valley so they are planning to get in a few rounds at Eddie Myers' layout before the Townsend Cup matches, which will be staged next week.

The Cincinnati fans are the most rabid in the country . . . They have ridden many ball players out of town for not measuring up to expectations . . . And, they've caused many managers to walk the plank . . . So, if Billy Werber continues to "boot 'em" as he did in the final games of the Reds-Cards series, the former Red Sox favorite will be seeking new worlds to conquer.

Already more than 40 teams have sent in entries for the Ouimet-Guilford four-ball tournament which will be played at Woodland June 2-4 . . . Last year the Ouimet-Guilford tourney attracted 58 teams . . . The Woodland committee voted to have a "One-Round-a-Day" division this year in the Ouimet – Guilford.

Judge Monahan

Time will tell . . . Judge J. W. Monahan's state handicap was raised to 6 . . . Joe Monahan, Jr. is now playing from 5 . . . Harry Richmond, the former New England Seniors' champion, tells me that Charlie Warmuth was playing pretty good golf at West Palm Beach, Fla., this winter . . . Harry's regular opponent in Florida was John Sanford, who is 89 years of age . . . Eddie Wyner was to have played in the Amateur-Pro tournament at Woodland but his leg ailment kicked up on him and E. T "Buddy" Ryan went in as a pinch hitter.

Julius Matthews, who is president of the New England Seniors' Golf Association, is on his way home from Pinehurst . . . Roy Paulsen, former pro at Longmeadow, has made a fine impression with the members of the Nashua Country Club . . . The members of the Bench and Bar Golf Association are still talking about the 67 that Bill Fleming carded at Pine Brook Valley.

They don't know that Pine Brook Valley is one of Chief Fleming's home courses . . . And also the locale where he recovered his swing after weeks of instruction by Eddie Myers, the club pro . . . Tony Manero, Salem, the former U. S. open titleholder, is one of the most popular professionals in New England.

There's any number of pros who'd be tough to get along with if they ever grabbed off the national open crown . . . But, not Tony, who is regular and is making real friends every day.
